

Sheena Phillips

Brought up in Ayrshire, Sheena gained her Diploma at Edinburgh College of Art. She was Craftsman-in-Residence in Linlithgow, then worked as a furniture designer until she decided to return to painting with a move to East Lothian.

She loves landscape and cityscapes and the effect of light on water and land. She prepares sketches 'en plein air' and the paintings are worked in her studio.

Most of her work is commissioned, not only landscapes but portraits and still life. She has had work accepted by the Royal Institute of Painters in Watercolour, RSW, Aberdeen Artists Society and 'The Discerning Eye', London. She has been a gallery artist with Hanover Fine Arts since first showing in 1988.

She has been commissioned by firms, councils and individuals in Britain and abroad.

Artist's Statement –

Sheena loves painting in watercolours. She goes to the coast and feels the swell of the waves and incoming storms. She looks down over industrial towns with fog rising. She catches the light as it fades on the firth. She watches waterfalls crashing in highland glens and light shimmering over cities.

Sheena just loves looking and seeing something that makes her say 'WOW' out loud, and she is usually on her own!
